PENNSYLVANIA PICKS WET CANDIDATE TROY SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY TO SECOND DEGREE INDICTMENT

CONGRESSMAN VANE WINS REPUBLICAN SENATE SELECTION

Proponent Of Light Wine And Beer Is Conceded Victory

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 19.—Congressman William S. Vare, staunch advocate of beer and wines, today was conceded the Republican nomination to the U. S. Senate, which in Pennsylvania, virtually means election.

Vare's vote yesterday in 5,968 of the 8,281 election districts in the state was 529,044 against 413,504 for George Wharton Pepper, the incumbent and 253,205 for Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Pepper had made his campaign on support of the Coolidge administration with the most active support Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has ever given a candidate in his home state, but he went down in defeat with Governor Gifford Pinchot, dryest of the dries and a Rooseveltian figure.

Since only two Democratic senators have been chosen in the history of the state since 1876, the nomination was interpreted as presaging election.

In the senatorial contest Vare made his sole appeal on the beer issue. He claimed the Volstead act had proved a failure. He promised to be a power in the next Republican national convention with the delegation of the state behind him. Office seekers over the county were watching the result here, he said. Pennsylvania would prove the Keystone state in the move for modification, he contended.

Mellon made a speech for Pepper, claiming Republicans here should support him to endorse the policies of Coolidge and the national government which Pepper has supported while in the senate. It was the first political speech Mellon ever made.

Pinchot made his fight against what he called the Vare and Mellon machines, contending he was a "dry" dry. His vote fell far below expectations, opponents even eating into his contemplated majorities in the nine districts, where he was considered strongest.

This complete victory for Vare may make him the longest sought successor to Boies Penrose, so-called boss of the state a few years ago, who wielded so much influence in the selection of presidential candidate and in designation of the policies of the party.

Edward E. Beideman, former lieutenant governor, and candidate for Governor, was carried along on the Vare wave against three opponents. He polled 534,615 votes in 5800 districts. John S. Fisher, running-mate of Senator Pepper, received 472,248; Congressman Thomas W. Phillips 52,221 and former governor John K. Tener, 33,238.

Vare's greatest plurality was in Philadelphia, his home city, where he polled 334,495 votes—220,928 more than Pepper, who had 114,317 votes in this city. Pinchot polled 28,036.

However, in Allegheny County, which includes Pittsburgh, stronghold of the Mellon organization, which backed the Pepper-Fisher ticket, Vare appeared to be running behind.

Pepper had polled 74,209; Vare 62,407 and Pinchot, 40,541 in 1229 districts out of 1406. Fisher was carried along with Pepper, polling 55,244 votes against Beideman's 53,520.

Because he won as an avowed wet favoring modification of the Volstead law, Vare's victory is hailed in Anti-Prohibition quarters as a wet triumph. If the vote at the polls, however, is to be regarded as the first state-wide referendum on a clear cut wet and dry issue, the dries hold they scored an overwhelming victory. The combined vote against Vare, polled for Pepper and Pinchot, is expected to exceed by 150,000 that cast for the Philadelphia wet leader.

The vote from the rural districts piled up increasing totals for Pinchot, a bone dry, and Pepper, the administration candidate, but because this anti-Vare vote was split between them, neither could overcome Vare's vote.

He will start from New York by ship the middle of September.

He will attempt to reach Framheim, which was used by Captain Roald Amundsen as a base for his expedition when he visited the South Pole, and will start his flight from there. If he reaches the South Pole he plans to return north next spring and fly from Etah, Greenland, exploring the sector of the Arctic in that district, west of Spitzbergen, which he had hoped to visit this year.

Byrd's ship, the Chantler, was scheduled to leave King's Bay today for London.

STATE REFERENDUM ON LIQUOR ASSURED BY NEW YORK ACTION

Believe Smith Will Sign Bill Asking For Volstead Vote

ALBANY, N. Y., May 19.—A referendum on liquor today seemed assured.

After hearing arguments by wets and dries, Governor Al Smith has made what was interpreted as an announcement that he would sign a bill which the legislature passed, providing for a vote on Volstead law modification.

If Gov. Smith signs the bill and if the dries fail in projected court proceedings to prevent the referendum, then New York will take the first referendum on prohibition since the law became effective.

The vote will be at the general election.

The ballot will be made a test of strength by both sides in the prohibition controversy. It was indicated in the argument before the governor. The dries are openly known to be ready to carry the fight into the court by asking an order preventing the secretary of state from placing the issue on the ballot.

They argue it is an improper question to be submitted.

"I have heard the radicals on each side," Gov. Smith said in discussing the referendum bill "and it seems to me it is time to find out what the great army in between thinks and feels."

Should the state vote overwhelmingly for modification and congress should not act voluntarily in the matter, "then New York might properly take the lead in modification," the Governor said. Regardless of who won in the referendum, the governor argued the result would be a valuable guide to the legislature as showing conclusively the trend of popular opinion.

W. E. D. STOKES IS DEAD IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 19.—W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy retired capitalist, died here today.

Stokes gained nation-wide attention a few years ago through the sensational divorce action involving him and his wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, former Denver, Colo., beauty.

Stokes was in his 74th year. The illness which confined him to his home was not believed of a critical nature although the retired hotel magnate had been in ill-health for years.

Stokes' son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., was with him when he died.

Tentative plans set the date for the funeral for Saturday.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 19.—The importance of adequate lighting facilities for the development of efficiency in workmanship among the 41,000,000 Americans gainfully employed, was stressed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis here today in an address before the National Electric Light Association.

"The electric light and power companies of America have performed a notable service in bringing electrical power to every kind of mill and factory and in adapting it to every phase of industry," Davis said.

"Nevertheless, though you have made a splendid beginning, you have not finished your work here. Perhaps you are so accustomed to the wonders of electricity that you are in danger of acquiring that familiarity which is said to breed contempt.

Salesman Changes Plan To Fight Case In Court After Conference With Attorneys—May Begin Sentence at Once

TROY, O., May 19.—Jacob Nesbitt today pleaded guilty to an indictment charging a second degree murder in connection with the killing of his wife, Frances Drake Nesbitt.

The court immediately sentenced him to life imprisonment and Sheriff Mont Spillman began preparations to remove the prisoner to the state penitentiary, perhaps this afternoon.

Sentence was pronounced by Common Pleas Judge Walter D. Jones. In response to a question from Judge Jones, as to his plea, Nesbitt calmly said:

"I plead guilty of my own volition."

The court then asked him to state whether any other persons were implicated in the crime and whether he was shielding any one.

Nesbitt complacently responded that he was not.

Judge Jones asked if he had any other statement to make.

"I would like to add that I am satisfied," the former kitchen appliance salesman said, emotionally. "I am thankful—thankful for what Mr. Shipman (L. H. Shipman, his attorney) has done for me."

"I feel that what I am doing is the best for all concerned. By that I mean myself, my folks and the parents of this girl" (Frances).

Nesbitt was brought into the packed courtroom, handcuffed to Deputy Sheriff Walter Matthews.

As the prisoner was brought in the manacles were slipped from his hands. The confessed slayer appeared more moved than at any time since the coroner's inquest. His lips twitched nervously and his hands moved involuntarily. It was evident the heretofore debonaire prisoner was nervous.

As court was called to order Shipman arose and said his client had authorized him to withdraw his plea of not guilty and to plead guilty for him.

"It is no secret that the defense has had the advantage of consultation with Haines (W. A. Haines, prominent criminal attorney) Shipman said. "We went into the case from every angle. We came to the conclusion that it was best for Jake to plead guilty."

"We believe that if the case had gone to trial the jury probably would have brought in a verdict of guilty. A trial would have been terrifically expensive to the county and there would have been much unnecessary publicity and no gain."

Shipman cleared his throat and continued:

"The tragedy has caused a great deal of sorrow to Nesbitt's uncle and aunt (Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hotelle). His wife's parents still say Jake was good to them and God knows they were good to Jake. Jake does not care to make an effort to get a few more years of liberty in his wrecked life at the expense of causing them additional pain."

"The press in general has been fair, with the exception of one or two papers, I will not name. I know it has been difficult at times to write only the truth but with the exception of the papers to which I refer, Jake and I feel the newspapers have been fair."

"I want to speak a word about the victim. Outside of the few years she attended college, she spent all her life in this town (until after her death no one ever spoke a word of disrespect concerning her).

"The defense has never found a shred of evidence pointing to moral leprosy on her part. The counsel on the other side hasn't found a scintilla of evidence against her."

"Jake authorized me to say that 'Fran' was true to him."

"His house of respect and honor is a heap of ruins about his feet."

"He hopes some day to be able to build a little shack, where he can again have some of that respect and honor restored."

The court then asked Prosecutor Harvey if he had any statement to make.

"I have no comment to make in view of the fact that a plea of guilty has been entered," Harvey responded. "I do not feel that any remarks are necessary."

Nesbitt was allowed to remain seated while the court pronounced sentence.

Nesbitt's plea writes "finis" to one of the most peculiar murder cases in the history of Ohio.

Early on the morning of Feb. 19, Nesbitt "found" the body of his wife in the bath tub of their cottage in an isolated section of the outskirts of Troy.

Search for the slayer started at once. Detectives were called in and developed a strong chain of circumstantial evidence against Nesbitt. But, because of his standing in the community, officials were slow to arrest the former Ohio State University student.

Nesbitt, according to his confession, had slain his wife while infuriated, then calmly spent the entire day in building up an apparently impregnable alibi.

A pair of blue pajamas proved the weak link in this chain.

Through investigation detectives proved Nesbitt had worn the pajamas the week of the slaying. Nesbitt denied this, but a woman's eye for color proved his undoing. Mrs. Prentiss Brown, of Columbus, a guest with her husband at the Nesbitt home two nights before the murder, declared Nesbitt had on the blue pajamas when he stopped at their room to talk to her husband.

Detective Ora Slater, Cincinnati, succeeded in gaining Nesbitt's confidence. For two days they traveled over the state, hunting for the murderer. All the while Slater was studying his man.

Nesbitt, in the meantime, had been aiding reporters in the search for the slayer.

Finally Slater, convinced the proper moment had arrived, took Nesbitt and two of his best friends, C. C. Willard and Herbert Johnston of Troy, to the murder house, where he accused Nesbitt of killing his wife.

Through six hours of intensive grilling, Nesbitt denied every charge, Slater made, but finally, as night approached, the little group in the room where he first struck his wife with the club that killed her, grew silent. Not a word was spoken for half an hour. Then Nesbitt burst forth with:

"I'll tell, I'll tell."

His confession, one of the most remarkable on record, followed.

During the three weeks between the night of the murder and the night he confessed, Nesbitt stayed at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Drake, parents of the slain woman. At this time he was cool and self-possessed.

The Drakes, who were confident Nesbitt was innocent feel they have been spared a great ordeal. Mrs. Drake, has been ill since the murder and her husband and son feared the strain of a trial would prove fatal.

HIGHER THAN WOOLWORTH BUILDING

Year's Sales of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. ED. DAUGHERTY
1308 ORCHARD AVENUE, MUSCATINE, IOWA

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is the highest building in the United States.

If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in 1925 could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Massachusetts to Cleveland, Ohio.

In many little villages as in many thriving cities along the route, who are glad to tell others about Lydia

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent letter, Mrs. Daugherty says, "I was ill for four months before I took your medicine. I found one of your books at my front door and read it. It seemed to fit my case, so I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every one I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to ask you for my letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Avenue, Muscatine, Iowa.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped

Muncie, Indiana.—"I could not get around to do my work. I took treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle, as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicine that have done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and from using the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. P. W. Carr, 721 West Powers St., Muncie, Indiana.

What Is a One-Cent Sale?

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klezno Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

A Profit-Sharing Method of Advertising

This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, as we know the goods will please you.

ARTIST DISPLAYS

PRINTS AT RECEPTION

Mrs. E. C. Shinn, Yellow Springs, former well known New York artist, who possesses a valuable collection of Japanese prints, entertained guests of Mrs. Mary Little Dice with a display and description of her prints, Tuesday afternoon.

Fifty guests were received at Mrs. Dice's home on N. King St. to meet Mrs. Charles Thomas Walkley, East Orange, N. J., formerly of Xenia. Honoring the presence of Mrs. Shinn, masses of Japanese blossoms, with white iris and dogwood predominating were used about the rooms. The white bloom combined with the green foliage, effectively carried out a green and white scheme. Mrs. Shinn's husband is a prominent artist and illustrator. While in New York, Mrs. Shinn did extensive drawing and painting, collecting the valuable Japanese prints as a side-line. She comes from an artist family and her display of lovely prints at Tuesday's reception revealed her artistic sense.

The charming function was one of several at which Mrs. Walkley will be honor guest, during her visit in Xenia. Mrs. Dice is receiving again Thursday in her honor.

COUNTY FEELS HIGH WIND; LOSS SMALL

No property loss was reported although considerable damage of a lesser nature was caused over the county by the high wind and rain storm Tuesday afternoon.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co., in particular encountered the most trouble. Much wire trouble was experienced especially in the vicinity of Bellbrook, since the wind blew for a time with particular velocity in that locality.

Poles were blown down in certain areas over the county but communication remained unbroken and service was unimpaired as linemen succeeded in repairing the damage.

Limbs of trees were strewn along the sidewalks and scattered over the streets in Xenia and a large window pane in the office of the Xenia Stemmy branch of the American Cigar Co., was shattered when the intensity of the wind caused it to become loosened from its fastenings.

CONTINUE CAUTION AGAINST MAD DOGS

Xenians are warned by Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner, to continue their precautions against any further outbreak of the rabies among dogs until the danger point is passed.

No new cases have been reported for several days over the county but this may not be taken as a sign the "mad dog scare" is over, it is advised.

The physician does not believe the condition will develop into an epidemic among the canine population but agrees with police in insisting that all dogs in the city be either chained or muzzled to prevent a recurrence of cases of rabies and to guard against spread of the disease.

Dr. DeHaven is at a loss to explain the cause of the several cases already reported.

GIRLS, WHITEN SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitenor, softener and beautifier. Massage this sweet lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared. adv.

The Theatre

The style-pendulum in girls has swung back again! The fickle public taste has changed. The "sweet" girl is again popular! Movie producers would give anything to know what the public wants next year and the year after.

Remember when the curly headed lass with the baby stare captivated the hearts of all audiences? She long held the foreground but lately her place has been usurped by the sophisticated "Flapper" with the knowing look and a penchant for cocktails and wild parties. You know the style: a girl has to follow the spirit of the times, they say. If that's the case, the old world must be getting better!

To prove our theory that the "nice girls" are winning back their place, we cite Lois Moran, Betty Bronson, Janet Gaynor, Mary Astor and other girls of a simple, sweet beauty.

"The feminine girl is in again!" declares "Cinema Art." "Despite the presence of more and more women in employment and the increasing masculinity of women, or rather because of it, these sweet little girls suddenly find a vast and enthusiastic public."

"This is not so difficult to understand when the idea is subjected to analysis. People want those things which their daily life does not bring them. Always the far-off thing has the lure and appeal. The girlish girl was fast becoming a legend. Now she was suddenly projected on the screen to delight those people who feared her gone forever. Now they had her back again and this time for lack of appreciation. The motion picture public opened its arms to the prodigal daughter. The same characteristics which had closed their eyes to her merits became her passport on the return."

"May the 'good girl' rule wisely."

NATIONS DISCUSS ARMS LIMITATION

GENEVA, May 13.—The preparatory commission on disarmament, meeting here under League of Nations auspices, today discussed the point where arms limitation should stop.

Viscount Cecil, representing Great Britain, urged only peace time standing armies should be considered.

France insisted that in limiting peace time effectiveness, the armaments of potential enemies and the ease of attack of each nation should be considered.

and well, making new friends and holding the old ones, with her modest charm and sweet daintiness."

Gloria Swanson doesn't think the Charleston is so much. As a matter of fact, she says, somewhat loftily, almost everyone can do the Charleston these days, or at least, almost everyone thinks he can. One finds Charleston dancing everywhere. But can one find a dancer who can do the "Off the Buffalo?" And how many can do, or even know, the "strut," the "swinging step," the "exit step" and a lot of others that Miss Swanson has been learning while filming "Fine Manners," her latest picture?

The funny papers have made so much derision of English people judging America by "The Merry World," the international revue to open in New York shortly, have decided to see this country from coast to coast before returning to Merrie England.

HUSBAND IDLE AND WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

Accusing her husband of idleness, dissipation and gambling along with small sums of money she had accumulated from time to time by dint of hard work, Dora Hargrave has brought suit for divorce from Alvin Hargrave in Common Pleas Court.

They were married January 12, 1918 and have two children, Carl and Ruth Anna.

The wife declares she was forced to leave him in February, 1926. She also claims ownership to household goods stored in the Miller house at Bowersville.

Claiming the defendant threatened her with bodily injury the plaintiff asks that he be enjoined from annoying her and asked to be granted the household goods in question.

TWO GIVEN DIVORCES

Martha C. Webb has been granted a divorce from Thomas L. Webb, in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty. Plaintiff was ordered restored to her maiden name of Martha C. Gowdy.

Divorce has been granted to Harry Wolfe from Mary Wolfe on grounds of gross neglect.

GIVEN JUDGMENT

In the case of The Pure Oil Co., against Edward J. Carlisle in Common Pleas Court the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of $269.68, the court held.

SALE ORDERED

Partition could not be granted and sale of real estate appraised by commissioners at $1,400 was ordered by the court in the case of Nannie C. Havener against Florence E. Carpenter and others in Common Pleas Court.

ADDITION BUILT TO HUNT BROOM PLANT

A large brick warehouse adjoining the Hunt Broom Factory, Dayton Ave., on the west side is nearing completion. It will be finished within three weeks and will be used for storage purposes.

TAILOR MAKES VALUABLE FIND

"After spending $900 for medicine and doctors in four years without getting any benefit for stomach trouble and bloating I was induced by my druggist to try MAYN'S and must say that a $1.25 bottle has done me $500 worth of good." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Sayre's Drug Store.

ed for storage purposes.

Salesman For Face Cream

Learns A Lesson

New York City. Mr. H. B. Menne writes:—"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples and blackheads, I tried one salve after another with no results. I found it as impossible to sell skin creams as a bald headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—constipation. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills my skin took on a new healthful look." Druggists, 25 & 75c red packages.

MODISH MITZI—What A Chance For Mitzi!

BY J. V. JAY

What luck! Estelle simply can't come to town to finish her trousseau shopping. Nobody but Mitzi could do it for her and will Mitzi be so kind? Mitzi will throw herself into the cause with the fervor of a fanatic—and if she chances to see something she likes for herself—

She has a whole day to shop and the best is none too good for Estelle. Meantime, she thinks she might have this flowered taffeta breakfast jacket sent home on approval and wire Estelle to find out whether she would like the wide sleeved affair of Georgette.

Mitzi was correct. It did take her a whole day to buy a negligee—and this is the costume in question. It is of rose crepe de chine with a cape of pale shell pink georgette and the only thing to be decided now is whether Estelle gets it or it remains with Mitzi!

THE SITUATION IN EUROPE

NO sooner is the announcement made that the British general strike is ended, than Poland, with a revolution comes to the notice of Americans as being the latest scene of European strife.

It is safe to assert that when the Polish trouble is at an end, Italy with the Fascisti movement, Germany with her ever ready Royalists, or Russia with the Bolsheviks or some other country, will cause turmoil in Europe.

From some of the nations in Europe news of internal trouble is expected as a matter of course. The larger nations ought to be above the childishness which usually causes the revolutions of the 'musical comedy' kind.

England nearly forgot her common sense and trembled upon the brink of a revolt not of the aforesaid stage variety, but of such a nature as to have plunged the country into financial and moral ruin.

Looking on from the outside it is easy to see how terrible the result of a civil war would be in England, but when a crisis of a similar kind comes in this land, if it ever does, it is likely that each side to the dispute will adopt a stand just as bellicose as was adopted by the two factions in England.

Then it will be the common sense of the people that will have to come to the rescue.

ON TOP OF THE WORLD

LIEUTENANT Commander Byrd has flown over the north pole in an airplane and Roald Amundsen has 'duplicated' the feat in an airship.

To America comes the glory of having sent the first air machine over the roof of the world. Although Norway can not claim the honor of being 'first' over the pole it should be remembered that the men who undertook the voyage took just as great risks as did the Americans and likely were inspired by just as worthy ideals.

The attempt to belittle the feat of Amundsen in certain newspapers by giving stress to a story to the effect that the Norwegian had claimed the pole for his country was in very ill taste.

Amundsen accomplished a fine undertaking.

Because he was not the first to fly over the pole and because he does not happen to be an American is no reason for not giving credit where credit is due.

ARE YOU A SUCCESS?

ARE you successful? Are you a "go-getter?"

There two questions do not mean one and the same thing. The writers of books on "How to Succeed" think they do; but they don't.

It is possible for a "go-getter" to be successful. It is also possible to be successful without a "go-getter."

The "go-getters" is the individual who starts out to make as much money as he can, or to climb as high as he can. The Roman emperor Maximin was a "go-getter." In his youth he was a Thracian shepherd; but being ambitious and about eight feet tall he joined the army and secured rapid promotion. His one idea was to get ahead, and who was not particular as to the means. He secured the favor of the Emperor Alexander Severus, and repaid him by having Alexander put to death in Maximin's own tent. Maximin was then proclaimed emperor. The "go-getter" had succeeded. But he was not a success. After three bloody years he was assassinated by his own army.

While Maximin was having his ups and downs, there were a few million Romans not mentioned by Gibbon who were marrying and raising families and educating their children and keeping their promises and trying to be decent, self-respecting citizens. In the opinion of Maximin and the authors of books on "Success," they were probably no accounts, failures. But in the long history of the human race they were the successes, Maximin and his like the failures.

KEEPING AND SPENDING

These I would have him spend: Silver and gold, Serving some useful end, Playing the man and friend 'Till the grows old.

Thus let him give away All that I leave, Spending as best he may, Comforting, day by day, Hearts when they grieve.

But this I'd have him keep Down to the last, Faith when the road is steep, Faith when his eyes must weep, Holding it fast.

Silver and gold are naught, Those he may spend, But whosoever wrought, God grant the faith I taught, Be his to the end.

500 INDIANS IN BELLBROOK

After Lewis Cass and Duncan McArthur had purchased the lands owned by the Indians north of the Greenville treaty line by the treaty of St. Marys in 1818, certain tracts were reserved for the remnants of the Wyandotte, Delaware and Seneca tribes. These reservations, however, were subsequently ceded to the United States.

The last of these aborigines of Ohio to leave were the Wyandottes, who turned over their lands to the government in 1842.

During July of the following year these Indians, numbering at least 500, were removed to Kansas.

When they were all collected, they started for Cincinnati and as the weather was pleasant, made the journey overland.

During that month their long wagon train passed through Bellbrook. The Indians pitched their wigwams between the village and Little Sugar Creek, where they prepared to spend the night. During their brief stay, they became acquainted with many of the townspeople.

The Indians, however, did not remain for any great length of time. In fact the great caravan started for Cincinnati the next morning. From there the redskins boarded a river boat which took them to Kansas. There they were met by their kinsmen who had preceded them.

FOR BURNING ECZEMA

Apply Zemo, the Antiseptic Liquid—Easy to Use

When applied as directed Zemo effectively removes Eczema, quickly stops itching, and heals skin troubles, also Sores, Burns, Wounds and Chafing. It penetrates, cleanses and soothes. Zemo is a clean, dependable and inexpensive antiseptic liquid, that is especially adapted for daytime use because it does not show. Ask your druggist for a small size 60c or large bottle $1.00.

ECZEMA

Dries right up!

If you just realized how easy it is to stop fiery, itching, burning eczema by simply building up the red-blood-cells in your blood with S. S. S., you wouldn't waste another minute trying to do it any other way. That's the only way to relieve irritated, broken out skin of any sort. You lack rich, red blood. Impurities are in your system. The blood is so weak it can't fight back and overcome the enemy, so the impurities break out through the skin.

S. S. S. builds the blood back—builds millions of new red-blood-cells. Eczema dries right up. Boils, pimples, blackheads, ugly blotches and irritating rashes all disappear. Clear up your skin. Get S. S. S. All druggists sell it. The larger bottle is more economical.

Today's Talk

WHERE IS HAPPINESS?

The one undying pursuit of the human race has always been for happiness. Whether in the jungle or the mansion.

And when so important an instrument as the Declaration of Independence came up for writing, Jefferson added in that great preamble that familiar phrase—"the pursuit of happiness" as an inalienable right.

Stevenson says that "to travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive."

Happiness moves throughout the world like air, like delicate perfume that has been tossed from exquisite cups in the heart of flowers, like songs that have warmed in throats until they had to break their way into expression, like the wings of the swift flying bird seeking the sunshine above the clouds.

So it is that the business of life evolves itself not in securing happiness but in its pursuit—working, hoping, praying for it—until all at once we find we have caught it in our arms.

Where is happiness? It is everywhere—and nowhere! But to be always expecting happiness is to surely find it sometime, somehow.

But happiness doesn't "just come." It's a hunting game and a giving game. Where it? Maybe in the hovel, maybe at the sick-bed, maybe in the lonely room where God likes to creep in and talk.

Most of the happiness in the world you will find in the heart of the one you have done most to make happy.

It is said, and truthfully, that if a woman be wise she can better acquaint herself with the quality and service she may expect from a concern by acquainting herself with its policies and ideals than by studying its merchandise.

For when dealing with a concern that has built up a successful business on a sound conservative foundation—one that strives for consistent performance, and has ideals—a woman gains in the knowledge that whatever she may buy will be right from the standpoint of quality and price, whenever she may choose to purchase.

In the Kroger Bakery we try to make the best bread that can be made. Ingredients are of the same high quality that you yourself would use. The same thoughtful care is taken with each loaf. We add an extra amount of rich milk to give added creaminess, wholesomeness and flavor. Guesswork is entirely eliminated.

It is our policy to do a thing the best that it can be done. Our ideals have always been high. And that they have won the confidence of modern women is shown by the tremendous sale of over 78,000,000 pounds during 1925.

Track Stars to Clash at B. A. A. Meet May 22

CINCINNATI, Ohio—(Special)—Track stars of Ohio will gather here May 22 when the six colleges composing the Buckeye Athletic Association meet at the University of Cincinnati for their first annual track and field meet. Two Ohio intercollegiate champions will be included among entries for the meet. Captain Ted Rosser of Ohio Wesleyan holding the state 440-yard record and Weaver Emery, Miami, holding the state two-mile record. Emery also runs the mile in the excellent time of 4:30. Leonard Heinrichs, Denison, is perhaps the most versatile star to be included in the B. A. A. meet this spring. Heinrichs hails from Chicago and runs the hurdles and dashes and also high jumps. With Herbert Ellis of Ohio Wesleyan he is the joint holder of the Ohio relay record for the 120-yard high hurdles. Captain Clarence Hudson of the Ohio University team is also a hurdler and a sprinter. Hudson has been troubled by a bad ankle this spring but is pointing his efforts toward the B. A. A. meet. Vic Maurer, Wittenberg, a New Philadelphia lad, has already won a name for himself as a fast man on the football field and will attempt at Cincinnati to demonstrate his speed again on the track. Ralph Bennett, University of Cincinnati, is one of the most consistent performers in Ohio running the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes. Miami looks good to carry off first honors in the initial B. A. A. meet with the Ohio Wesleyan squad which has been severely handicapped by sickness and ineligibility finishing a close second. Cincinnati and Denison on the basis of their previous performance this year promise to battle for third and fourth place.

PRINCE ALBERT has been such a revelation to men who thought that they were pipe-happy that three pipes are smoked today where one was smoked before. That's a fact, Men, just as sure as little bees buzz and polliwogs have tails.

And you don't need a degree from Oxford to figure out the reason: The Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch pos-i-tive-ly and Prince Albert quality makes it the National Joy Smoke. That means you can cram this fine old favorite into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and turn on all five tubes . . . go to it any way you please . . . slow or fast, morning to midnight!

Yes, sir! P. A. is the taste-teasingest, tongue-pleasingest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar. Its smoke is the coolest that ever sifted into your system. Its fragrance keeps honeysuckle and your favorite rose fighting for second place.

Put it on your pad now: You've got a date this very day with the smoke-shop that hands out P. A. sunshine in tidy red tins. Decorate yourself with the degree of P. A., and get the highest degree of pleasure out of that old pipe.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

By ALBERTINE RANDALL

Relative Of Xenian Has Letter From Bell Announcing Phone Forerunner

Mrs. Sarah Fuller, Boston, Mass., aunt of Miss Sarah Hager, this city, didn't know a letter she received from her friend, Alexander Graham Bell, fifty years ago would become historically important some day.

But when the fiftieth anniversary of the telephone was celebrated here this year, the time-yellowed missive, preserved for a half-century, played an interesting part in the program. The letter was read by Miss Hager at the Xenia celebration and a picture of a class of deaf and dumb children of which Mrs. Fuller and Mr. Bell were instructors, was exhibited at the same time.

It was through Bell's interest in perfecting an instrument which would enable the deaf to hear that his researches brought about the discovery of the telephone, which plays such a prominent part in modern life. It was then that he wrote to his friend, Mrs. Fuller, in whose home he had at one time been a roomer, and added the following postscript:

"P. S.: Grand telegraphic discovery today. Transmitted vocal sounds for the first time.

"I sang in front of a stretched membrane attached to the armature of an electro-magnet—and the pitches were echoed by an instrument in another room about 300 feet away.

"With some further modifications I hope we may be enabled to distinguish in the echo the timbre of the sound. Should this be so—conversation by telegraph will be a fact accomplished.

Yours sincerely,
A. G. B.

P. S.: The above result was accomplished without the aid of a battery. A. G. B."

The letter and picture represented so interesting a detail of early telephone history, that officials of The Ohio Bell Telephone Co., borrowed both for the purpose of making a permanent record and accompanying pictures were furnished by that company.

Although Bell is dead, Mrs. Fuller still lives in Boston.

Everything today indicates that the automobile is a necessity which almost every family recognizes. The person who does not drive is as behind the age as a spinning wheel. You don't have to buy a car—rent one and drive it yourself.

RECEIVES MEDICAL DEGREE WITH CLASS AT MONDAY PROGRAM

Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chambliss, W. Second St., received his degree in medicine Monday night at Memorial Hall, Cincinnati, when graduation exercises of Eclectic Medical College were held.

Dr. Chambliss delivered the president's address as head of his class, at the annual alumni dinner at the Cincinnati Business Men's Club. He was further honored by being elected vice president of the alumni association of the school. Dr. B. H. Nellaus was elected president; Dr. Murphy, second vice-president; Dr. J. K. Scudder, treasurer and Dr. Chas. R. Campbell, secretary.

Dr. Chambliss is a graduate of Central High School, 1917; entering Antioch College, where he graduated in 1921, with a bachelor of science degree. He attended Western Reserve University, 1921-22 and in 1922 entered the Eclectic Medical College, Cincinnati.

He was night clinician at the maternity clinic for two years, while attending school. In his junior year he was elected vice-president of his class. In October, 1925, he was elected president of the senior class. He spent a year at the Dayton State Hospital in the interne ward.

Dr. Chambliss will give a talk on "Paranoia" at the medical convention at Cedar Point in June. He expects to locate in Xenia to practice his profession.

CHEMICAL PRODUCT DESCRIBED IN TALK AT KIWANIS MEETING

Interesting description of "Ichthyol," special product of the Dayton Chemical Co., described by Eugene Staegemann, chemist for the Dayton concern, was followed closely by Xenia Kiwanians, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday evening.

"Ichthyol" comes from a deposit found in old sea bottoms, and is composed of organic matter, estimated at thirteen million years old. It is formed by the deposit of fish and fossils. It was originally discovered by German scientists and was later found by Swiss and Austrian chemists. The output was controlled for a number of years by Germany, until the discovery of a similar deposit in Texas by Mr. Staegemann, and H. S. Stafford, of the Dayton Chemical Co., who are the only chemists in the country holding the secret.

"Ichthyol" has a germicidal action without destruction of tissue. It is non-poisonous, but as strong as carbolic acid. The matter has a bituminous appearance and is distilled after reaching the Dayton plant.

Mr. Staegemann demonstrated the chemical composition of the matter with different paraphernalia before Kiwanians. He was introduced by Dr. W. A. Galloway, who with other physicians, has used the product for a number of years.

to attend the inter-city meeting in Urbana next Wednesday night. Several local Kiwanians attended the institution of the Oxford Club, Tuesday night, while others attended a dinner-dance given by Springfield Kiwanis Club, at the Hotel Shawnee.

NOVENAS TO SAINTS RESULT IN MIRACLE CURES IS LEARNED

BOSTON, May 13. — (United Press)—Tales of "miracle cures" were told here today following Novenas to St. Teresa and St. Rita. In two instances, faith and prayer were credited with having alleviated the effects of paralysis. A young woman had recovered her voice; a child, the use of her arms.

As the Rev. W. J. Casey, Roxbury pastor, was pronouncing benediction at a Novena to St. Teresa, Miss Mary Manning of Wellesley, fainting. She was revived by her mother, Mrs. William Manning, and aunt, Mrs. Mary Lane.

Relatives were astounded when, on opening her eyes, the young woman said, clearly and distinctly: "Praise be to the little flower. Aunt Mary and mother, I can speak. I have recovered my voice."

Not since she was stricken with paralysis seven months ago had Miss Manning been able to talk. It was said.

Women and children in the chapel, many of whom had come in quest of miracle cures, saw Miss Manning collapse, regain consciousness, and heard the few words that came from the lips that had been sealed.

Weeping joyously, some knelt, kissed the girl's garments, begged her to pray to St. Teresa for them.

In a like manner, Elizabeth Charley, of Lowell, while attending a Novena to St. Rita, raised her arms, the use of which she had lost through paralysis. Parents said later the child apparently had regained full use of her arms.

Miss Manning, who is twenty-two years old, proved she had fully recovered her power of speech by talking on the telephone with the United Press from her home in Wellesley today.

"I remember very little about it," she said, "except bowing my head at the benediction and offering a prayer. Then my mind seemed to go blank and my next impulse was to cry out for joy. The moment I opened my eyes I knew I would be able to talk again."

Immediately following the awarding of the contracts, ground will be broken for the immense annex this month.

CLINE GIVEN $1,000 FINE; WILL APPEAL

Overruling a motion for a new trial, Mayor John Prugh imposed a fine of $1,000 and costs upon Earl Cline, 20, W. Main St., following his conviction upon a charge of furnishing intoxicating liquor to Orville Snell, 17, and Charles Ellis, 19, Tuesday afternoon.

Cline gave notice of appeal to Common Pleas Court through Attorney F. L. Johnson and his release was authorized under $1,000 bond.

Snell and Ellis, who were found by police in a gravel pit off the Towler Road Saturday afternoon admitted obtaining a quantity of corn whiskey from Cline. Snell was unconscious when found and could not be revived for seven hours. Ellis fled at the approach of the officers, refusing to be frightened by a volley of shots fired in the air, but submitted to arrest the following day.

Cline denied furnishing the youths with liquor.

My Matrimonial Vacation

by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

NANCY LARRABEE becomes a matrimonial free lance when her husband, a young army officer, is sent to the Philippines on foreign duty. Nancy stays home with her mother.

VIRGINIA, who uses the girl's charm and beauty to help get what she wants in the world of society. Their landlord.

FRANK HARRISON, falls in love with Nancy, who tries to transfer his attentions to her mother, who is nearer his age. She gets into difficulty there, as she also does when trying to straighten out the matrimonial tangles of her other friends.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXVIII—A TRIP SOUTH

I FELT rather proud of myself for what I had done in helping Nathalie to straighten out her affairs, but Virginia took the affair out of my hands by finding fault with me the day after my meeting with Phil Leland in the park, when he threatened to get even with me for what I had done.

"The winter is really over, and I'm frightfully disappointed in you," she told me. "We can't afford to spend another one here in town, and I'd counted on you to—"

"To find a rich husband, and get rid of Jim, and marry the other man," I supplied as she hesitated. We never had discussed things quite that frankly, though I had always known what she wanted, and she had realized that I knew.

"Yes, I've spent far too much on your clothes, and this apartment, to get no return for it. Your father made a cash settlement on me—that's the money with which I bought stock on a margin—and now that's gone. What we're to do I don't know. If you'd only used common sense you could have married Frank Harrison this spring."

"Always providing that I got a divorce from Jim," I reminded her. "And I couldn't have married Frank, because he's crazy about you; you know that quite as well as I do."

I hated the whole world in which I lived that morning. It was such a tawdry, empty life, in which women traded husbands as children trade dolls. I wished that I could get away from it all.

"Well, our money is so near gone that we'll have to give up this apartment by the end of next month," Virginia went on fretfully. "And what we'll do then I don't know."

"We might go to work," I suggested flippantly. "I'd make a good clerk or waitress. I'm sure, and you could be an official chaperone, or sell hats, or do something like that."

Virginia merely stared at me. I knew that she'd almost rather starve than go to work. Personally, it had always seemed to me to be a great adventure, to go out into the world and get a job and earn money, and run into all kinds of people. If only Virginia would marry Frank Harrison and leave me free to do as I liked!

I went to Nathalie Jordan's as soon as I could escape from the house. I found her surrounded by pamphlets from one of the big travel agencies.

"Look, Nancy," she cried, tossing one of them to me. "The tropics! Egypt! China! How'd you like to pick up and sail away from New York, down to the land where it's summer?"

"Don't ask me—you might as well ask how I'd like to fly out of the window," I told her gloomily.

"That's absurd. Hubby and I were talking this morning at breakfast of how much we'd like to get away, and his yacht is in commission again now. We've been planning a little trip. Want to go along?"

"Oh Nathalie, it's what I'd love better than anything else," I cried. "When do we start?"

"The first of the week, I think. We've about decided on Nassau—have you ever been there?"

"I've never been anywhere," I answered. "I'd love to go. I've always been crazy to go to the Bahamas."

"All right—that's settled! But I'm afraid we can't get much of a party together on such short notice. We'll go to Miami by train, and the yacht will be taken down and meet us there. Now, let's see about clothes—want to go shopping?"

She was as happy as a child who's been promised a wonderful front. Yet a week ago a trip to Nassau would have meant nothing to her. I wondered if I'd be so radiantly happy if Jim were to come back and tell me that he still loved me.

It was useless for me to go shopping. For I hadn't any money, and huge bills at the shops. But Nathalie insisted on finding out what I liked, and when I got home that afternoon my room was overflowing with huge boxes, full of hats and frocks and cunning sports clothes.

"Oh, I can't let Nathalie give me all these," I told Virginia in dismay. "Why not? She has loads of money. It's a pleasure to her to give you things," Virginia answered, but it's a pleasure to other people to give things to her or me. 'Now, what's the meaning of all this? Where are you going?"

I told her. She sighed, and rummaged through my desk for cigarettes.

"Well, I hope you can land a rich man—and that you'll have sense enough to take him," she remarked. "If you don't we'll go to the poor-house."

PENNSYLVANIA PICKS WET CANDIDATE TROY SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY TO SECOND DEGREE INDICTMENT

CONGRESSMAN VANE WINS REPUBLICAN SENATE SELECTION

Proponent Of Light Wine And Beer Is Conceded Victory

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 19.—Congressman William S. Vare, staunch advocate of beer and wines, today was conceded the Republican nomination to the U. S. Senate, which in Pennsylvania, virtually means election.

Vare's vote yesterday in 5,968 of the 8,281 election districts in the state was 529,044 against 413,504 for George Wharton Pepper, the incumbent and 253,205 for Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Pepper had made his campaign on support of the Coolidge administration with the most active support Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has ever given a candidate in his home state, but he went down in defeat with Governor Gifford Pinchot, dryest of the dries and a Rooseveltian figure.

Since only two Democratic senators have been chosen in the history of the state since 1876, the nomination was interpreted as presaging election.

In the senatorial contest Vare made his sole appeal on the beer issue. He claimed the Volstead act had proved a failure. He promises to be a power in the next Republican national convention with the delegation of the state behind him. Office seekers over the county were watching the result here, he said.

Pinchot made his fight against what he called the Vane and Mellon machines, contending he was a "dry" dry. His vote fell far below expectations, opponents even eating into his contemplated majorities in the mine districts, where he was considered strongest.

This complete victory for Vare may make him the longest sought successor to Boies Penrose, so-called boss of the state a few years ago, who wielded so much influence in the selection of presidential candidate and in designation of the policies of the party.

Edward E. Beidelman, former lieutenant governor, and candidate for Governor, was carried along on the Vane wave against three opponents. He polled 534,415 votes in 5300 districts. John S. Fisher, running-mate of Senator Pepper, received 472,248; Congressman Thomas W. Phillips 52,221 and former governor John K. Tener, 38,238.

Vare's greatest plurality was in Philadelphia, his home city, where he rolled up 334,495 votes—220,928 more than Pepper who had 114,317 votes in this city. Pinchot polled 28,036.

However, in Allegheny County, which includes Pittsburgh, stronghold of the Mellon organization, which backed the Pepper-Fisher ticket, Vane appeared to be running behind.

Pepper had polled 74,209; Vare 62,407 and Pinchot 20,241 in 1229 districts out of 1406. Fisher was carried along with Pepper, polling 75,224 votes against Beidelman's 53,540.

Because he won as an avowed wet favoring modification of the Volstead law, Vane's victory is hailed in Anti-prohibition quarters as a wet triumph. If the vote at the polls, however, is to be regarded as the first state-wide referendum on a clear cut wet and dry issue, the dries hold they scored an overwhelming victory.

The combined vote against Vane, polled for Pepper and Pinchot, is expected to exceed by 150,000 that cast for the Philadelphia wet leader.

The vote from the rural districts piled up increasing totals for Pinchot, a bone dry, and Pepper, the administration candidate, but because this anti-Vare vote was split between them, neither could overcome Vane's vote.

Kirkpatrick was an employee of the Ford Motor Company, making regular flights between Detroit and Chicago.

A small house in the Chicago suburb of Harvey, was lifted from its foundation and carried fifty feet by the wind. Nineteen-year-old Heloise Scoush was in the building during its flight but escaped serious injury.

Roofs of more than a score of other buildings in Harvey were torn off. Plate glass windows were shattered by hailstones of enormous size.

Down state the storm brought immense property loss and eight persons were injured.

No mark of violence were found on the bodies, nor were bottles or other receptacles that might have contained poison, discovered. The Millers had been living in seclusion since their marriage.

Steubenville authorities were summoned and Corporal A. L. Bell and deputy Sheriff Edward Moran were expected to arrive here this afternoon.

STATE REFERENDUM ON LIQUOR ASSURED BY NEW YORK ACTION

Believe Smith Will Sign Bill Asking For Volstead Vote

ALBANY, N. Y., May 19.—A referendum on liquor today seemed assured.

After hearing arguments by wets and dries, Governor Al Smith has made what was interpreted as an announcement that he would sign a bill which the legislature passed, providing for a vote on Volstead law modification.

If Gov. Smith signs the bill and if the dries fail in projected court proceedings to prevent the referendum, then New York will take the first referendum on prohibition since the law became effective.

The vote will be at the general election. The ballot will be made a test of strength by both sides in the prohibition controversy, it was indicated in the argument before the governor. The dries are openly known to be ready to carry the fight into the court by asking an order preventing the secretary of state from placing the issue on the ballot.

They argue it is an improper question to be submitted. "I have heard the radicals on each side," Gov. Smith said in discussing the referendum bill "and it seems to me it is time to find out what the great army in between thinks and feels."

Should the state vote overwhelmingly for modification and congress should not act voluntarily in the matter, "then New York might properly take the lead in modification," the Governor said. Regardless of who won in the referendum, the governor argued the result would be a valuable guide to the legislature as showing conclusively the trend of popular opinion.

Jake Nesbitt, popular young Troy salesman, will pay for the murder of his wife, Frances Drake Nesbitt, in the Ohio Penitentiary. Nesbitt pleaded guilty to second degree murder Wednesday and was sentenced to life imprisonment. The sentence ends one of the most interesting murder cases in the history of Ohio's criminal annals.

W. E. D. STOKES IS DEAD IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 19.—W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy retired capitalist, died here today.

He had been ill for several days from double pneumonia. Stokes gained nation-wide attention a few years ago through the sensational divorce action involving him and his wife, Helen Elwood Stokes, former Denver, Colo., beauty.

Stokes was in his 74th year. The illness which confined him to his home was not believed of a critical nature although the retired hotel magnate had been in ill-health for years.

Stokes' son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., was with him when he died. Tentative plans set the date for the funeral for Saturday.

BICYCLE THEFTS BEING REPORTED

Complaints charging thefts were filed against four Shaker Heights youths in juvenile court here. One complaint has been filed by Lakewood police.

BETTER LIGHTING INCREASES PRODUCTION DAVIS DECLARES

ATLANTIC CITY, May 19.—The importance of adequate lighting facilities for the development of efficiency in workmanship among the 41,000,000 Americans gainfully employed, was stressed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis here today in an address before the National Electric Light Association.

"The electric light and power companies of America have performed a notable service in bringing electrical power to every kind of mill and factory and in adapting it to every phase of industry," Davis said.

"Nevertheless, though you have made a splendid beginning, you have not finished your work here. Perhaps you are so accustomed to the wonders of electricity that you are in danger of acquiring that familiarity which is said to breed contempt.

"When I reflect on what economic saving might be effected by means of better lighting; when I reflect on such matters as increase in production, the saving of life and limb, and ocular vision, and on all that may be done to promote happiness among millions of workers, I am inclined to think that you are too complacent in the presence of certain untoward conditions in industry.

"No end of tests have been made which demonstrate beyond all possible doubt that improved lighting increases the amount of production without adding to the burden of the workers.

"Electricity has produced an industrial revolution; it has become the most gigantic power of life; and the end is still far from being in sight. But you have got to have a workman who is commensurate with this change in industrial conditions, if the work of the future is to be carried on efficiently."

TROY SLAYER PLEADS GUILTY TO SECOND DEGREE INDICTMENT

Salesman Changes Plan To Fight Case In Court After Conference With Attorneys—May Begin Sentence at Once

TROY, O., May 19.—Jacob Nesbitt today pleaded guilty to an indictment charging a second degree murder in connection with the killing of his wife, Frances Drake Nesbitt.

The court immediately sentenced him to life imprisonment and Sheriff Mont Spillman began preparations to remove the prisoner to the state penitentiary, perhaps this afternoon.

Sentence was pronounced by Common Pleas Judge Walter D. Jones. In response to a question from Judge Jones, as to his plea, Nesbitt calmly said:

"I plead guilty of my own volition."

The court then asked him to state whether any other persons were implicated in the crime and whether he was shielding any one. Nesbitt complacently responded that he was not.

Judge Jones asked if he had any other statement to make. "I would like to add that I am satisfied," the former kitchen appliance salesman said, emotionally, "I am thankful—thankful for what Mr. Shipman (L. H. Shipman, his attorney) has done for me."

"I feel that what I am doing is the best for all concerned. By that I mean myself, my folks and the parents of this girl" (Frances).

Nesbitt was brought into the packed courtroom, handcuffed to Deputy Sheriff Walter Matthews. As the prisoner was brought in the manacles were slipped from his hands. The confessed slayer appeared more moved than at any time since the coroner's inquest. His lips twitched nervously and his hands moved involuntarily. It was evident the heretofore debonaire prisoner was nervous.

As court was called to order Shipman arose and said his client had authorized him to withdraw his plea of not guilty and to plead guilty for him.

"It is no secret that the defense has had the advantage of consultation with Haines (W. A. Haines, prominent criminal attorney)" Shipman said. "We went into the case from every angle. We came to the conclusion that it was best for Jake to plead guilty."

"We believe that if the case had gone to trial the jury probably would have brought in a verdict of guilty. A trial would have been terrifically expensive to the county and there would have been much unnecessary publicity and no gain."

Shipman cleared his throat and continued: "The tragedy has caused a great deal of sorrow to Nesbitt's uncle and aunt (Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hotell). His wife's parents still say Jake was good to them and God knows they were good to Jake. Jake does not care to make an effort to get a few more years of liberty in his wrecked life at the expense of causing them additional pain."

"The press in general has been fair, with the exception of one or two papers, I will not name. I know it has been difficult at times to write only the truth but with the exception of the papers to which I refer, Jake and I feel the newspapers have been fair."

"I want to speak a word about the victim. Outside of the few years she attended college, she spent all her life in this town until after her death no one ever spoke a word of disrespect concerning her."

"The defense has never found a shred of evidence pointing to moral leprosy on her part. The counsel on the other side hasn't found a scintilla of evidence against her."

"Frank was true to him. "His house of respect and honor is a heap of ruins about his feet. "He hopes some day to be able to build a little shack, where he can again have some of that respect and honor restored."

The court then asked Prosecutor Harvey if he had any statement to make. "I have no comment to make in view of the fact that a plea of guilty has been entered," Harvey responded. "I do not feel that any remarks are necessary."

Nesbitt was allowed to remain seated while the court pronounced sentence. Nesbitt's plea writes "finis" to one of the most peculiar murder cases in the history of Ohio.

Early on the morning of Feb. 19, Nesbitt "found" the body of his wife in the bath tub of their cottage in an isolated section of the outskirts of Troy.

Search for the slayer started at once. Detectives were called in and developed a strong chain of circumstantial evidence against Nesbitt. But, because of his standing in the community, officials were slow to arrest the former Ohio State University student.

Nesbitt, according to his confession, had slain his wife while infuriated, then calmly spent the entire day in building up an apparently impregnable alibi.

A pair of blue pajamas proved the weak link in this chain.

Through investigation detectives proved Nesbitt had worn the pajamas the week of the slaying. Nesbitt denied this, but a woman's eye for color proved his undoing. Mrs. Prentiss Brown, of Columbus, a guest with her husband at the Nesbitt home two nights before the murder, declared Nesbitt had on the blue pajamas when he stopped at their room to talk to her husband.

Detective Ora Slater, Cincinnati, succeeded in gaining Nesbitt's confidence. For two days they traveled over the state, hunting for the murderer. All the while Slater was studying his man.

Nesbitt, in the meantime, had been aiding reporters in the search for the slayer.

Finally Slater, convinced the proper moment had arrived, took Nesbitt and two of his best friends, C. C. Willard and Herbert Johnston of Troy, to the murder house, where he accused Nesbitt of killing his wife.

Through six hours of intensive grilling Nesbitt denied every charge, Slater made, but finally, as night approached, the little group in the room where he first struck his wife with the club that killed her, grew silent. Not a word was spoken for half an hour. Then Nesbitt burst forth with:

"I'll tell. I'll tell."

His confession, one of the most remarkable on record, followed.

During the three weeks between the night of the murder and the night he confessed, Nesbitt stayed at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Drake, parents of the slain woman. At this time he was cool and self-possessed.

The Drakes, who were confident Nesbitt was innocent feel they have been spared a great ordeal. Mrs. Drake, has been ill since the murder and her husband and son feared the strain of a trial would prove fatal.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Thousands of worshippers of Aimee Semple McPherson, noted radio evangelist, gathered at the beach at Venice, near here today and prayed for the safety of their spiritual leader.

Many of them had paced and prayed during the entire night, clinging to the hope that she is alive.

Mrs. McPherson was believed drowned while swimming in the surf late yesterday, but her followers refuse to believe she had left them until the body is recovered.

What Is a One-Cent Sale?

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Kleenex Dental Cream is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

A Profit-Sharing Method of Advertising

This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, as we know the goods will please you.

HIGHER THAN WOOLWORTH BUILDING

Year's Sales of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. E. D. DAUGHERTY
1308 ORCHARD AVENUE, MUSCATINE, IOWA

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is the highest building in the United States. If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in 1925 could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Massachusetts to Cleveland, Ohio. In many little villages as in many thriving cities along the route, who are glad to tell others about Lydia

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent letter, Mrs. Daugherty says, "I was ill for four months before I took your medicine. I found one of your books at my front door and read it. It seemed to fit my case, so I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every one I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. D. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Avenue, Muscatine, Iowa.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped

Muncie, Indiana.—"I could not get around to do my work. I took treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle, as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicines that have done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and from using the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. P. W. Carr, 721 West Powers St., Muncie, Indiana.

PRINTS AT RECEPTION

Mrs. E. C. Shinn, Yellow Springs, former well known New York artist, who possesses a valuable collection of Japanese prints, entertained guests of Mrs. Mary Little Dice with a display and description of her prints, Tuesday afternoon.

COUNTY FEELS HIGH WIND; LOSS SMALL

No property loss was reported although considerable damage of a lesser nature was caused over the county by the high wind and rain storm Tuesday afternoon.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co., in particular encountered the most trouble. Much wire trouble was experienced especially in the vicinity of Bellbrook, since the wind blew for a time with particular velocity in that locality.

Poles were blown down in certain areas over the county but communication remained unbroken and service was unimpaired as linemen succeeded in repairing the damage. Limbs of trees were strewn along the sidewalks and scattered over the streets in Xenia and a large window pane in the office of the Xenia Steamery branch of the American Cigar Co. was shattered when the intensity of the wind caused it to become loosened from its fastenings.

CONTINUE CAUTION AGAINST MAD DOGS

Xenians are warned by Dr. A. D. DeHaven, city health commissioner, to continue their precautions against any further outbreak of the rabies among dogs until the danger point is passed.

No new cases have been reported for several days over the county but this may not be taken as a sign the "mad dog scare" is over, it is advised.

The physician does not believe the condition will develop into an epidemic among the canine population but agrees with police in insisting that all dogs in the city be either chained or muzzled to prevent a recurrence of cases of rabies and to guard against spread of the disease.

Dr. DeHaven is at a loss to explain the cause of the several cases already reported.

The Theatre

The style-pendulum in girls has swung back again! The fickle public taste has changed. The "sweet" girl is again popular! Movie producers would give anything to know what the public wants next year and the year after.

Remember when the curly headed lass with the baby stare captivated the hearts of all audiences? She long held the foreground but lately her place has been usurped by the sophisticated "Flapper" with the knowing look and a penchant for cocktails and wild parties. You know the style 'n' girls has to follow the spirit of the times, they say. If that's the case, the old world may be getting better!

To prove our theory that the "nice girls" are winning back their place, we cite Lois Moran, Betty Bronson, Janet Gaynor, Mary Astor and other girls of a simple, sweet beauty.

"The feminine girl is in again!" declares "Cinema Art." "Despite the presence of more and more women in employment and the increasing masculinity of women, or rather because of it, these sweet little girls suddenly find a vast and enthusiastic public."

"This is not so difficult to understand when the idea is subjected to analysis. People want those things which their daily life does not bring them. Always the far-off thing has the lure and appeal. The girlish girl was fast becoming a legend. Now she was suddenly projected on the screen to delight those people who feared her good forever. Now they had her back again and this time they were not going to let her go for lack of appreciation. The motion picture public opened its arms to the prodigal daughter. The same characteristics which had closed their eyes to her merits became her passport on the return."

"May the 'good girl' rule wisely."

The funny papers have made so much derision of English people judging America by New York, that the principals of "The Merry World," the international revue to open in New York shortly, have decided to see this country from coast to coast before returning to Merrie England.

MODISH MITZI—What A Chance For Mitzi!

BY J. V. JAY

What luck! Estelle simply can't come to town to finish her trousseau shopping. Nobody but Mitzi could do it for her and will Mitzi be so kind? Mitzi will throw herself into the cause with the fervor of a fanatic—and if she chances to see something she likes for herself—

She has a whole day to shop and the best is none too good for Estelle. Meantime, she thinks she might have this flowered taffeta breakfast jacket sent home on approval and wire Estelle to find out whether she would like the wide sleeved affair of Georgette.

Well, only Dad will regret it. Today Mitzi goes to buy negligees. This hostess gown of almost equal parts of orchid chiffon and pale silver lace seems about as fascinating a garment as one could find. Mitzi, though, will carry on her researches.

Mitzi was correct. It did take her a whole day to buy a negligee—and this is the costume in question. It is of rose crepe de chine with a cape of pale shell pink georgette and the only thing to be decided now is whether Estelle gets it or it remains with Mitzi!

THE SITUATION IN EUROPE

NO sooner is the announcement made that the British general strike is ended, than Poland, with a revolution comes to the notice of Americans as being the latest scene of European strife.

It is safe to assert that when the Polish trouble is at an end, Italy with the Fascisti movement, Germany with her ever ready Royalists, or Russia with the Bolsheviks or some other country, will cause turmoil in Europe.

From some of the nations in Europe news of internal trouble is expected as a matter of course. The larger nations ought to be above the childishness which usually causes the revolutions of the 'musical comedy' kind.

England nearly forgot her common sense and trembled upon the brink of a revolt not of the aforesaid stage variety, but of such a nature as to have plunged the country into financial and moral ruin.

Looking on from the outside it is easy to see how terrible the result of a civil war would be in England, but when a crisis of a similar kind comes in this land, if it ever does, it is likely that each side to the dispute will adopt a stand just as Lellucose as was adopted by the two factions in England.

Then it will be the common sense of the people that will have to come to the rescue.

ON TOP OF THE WORLD

LEUTENANT Commander Byrd has flown over the north pole in an airplane and Roald Amundsen has 'duplicated' the feat in an airship.

To America comes the glory of having sent the first air machine over the roof of the world. Although Norway can not claim the honor of being 'first' over the pole it should be remembered that the men who undertook the voyage took just as great risks as did the Americans and likely were inspired by just as worthy ideals.

The attempt to belittle the feat of Amundsen in certain newspapers by giving stress to a story to the effect that the Norwegian had claimed the pole for his country was in very ill taste.

Amundsen accomplished a fine undertaking.

Because he was not the first to fly over the pole and because he does not happen to be an American is no reason for not giving credit where credit is due.

ARE YOU A SUCCESS?

ARE you successful? Are you a "go-getter?"

There two questions do not mean one and the same thing. The writers of books on "How to Succeed" think they do; but they don't.

It is possible for a "go-getter" to be successful. It is also possible to be successful without a "go-getter."

The "go-getters" is the individual who starts out to make as much money as he can, or to climb as high as he can. The Roman emperor Maximin was a "go-getter." In his youth he was a Thracian shepherd; but being ambitious and about eight feet tall he joined the army and secured rapid promotion. His one idea was to get ahead, and who was not particular as to the means. He secured the favor of the Emperor Alexander Severus, and repaid him by having Alexander put to death in Maximin's own tent. Maximin was then proclaimed emperor. The "go-getter" had succeeded. But he was not a success. After three bloody years he was assassinated by his own army.

What Maximin was having his ups and downs, there were a few million Romans not mentioned by Gibbon who were marrying and raising families and educating their children and keeping their promises and trying to be decent, self-respecting citizens. In the opinion of Maximin and the authors of books on "Success," they were probably no-accounts, failures. But in the long history of the human race they were the successes, Maximin and his like the failures.

500 INDIANS IN BELLBROOK

After Lewis Cass and Duncan McArthur had purchased the lands owned by the Indians north of the Greenville treaty line by the treaty of St. Marys in 1818, certain tracts were reserved for the remnants of the Wyandotte, Delaware and Seneca tribes. These reservations, however, were subsequently ceded to the United States.

The last of these aborigines of Ohio to leave were the Wyandottes, who turned over their lands to the government in 1842.

During July of the following year these Indians, numbering at least 500, were removed to Kansas.

When they were all collected, they started for Cincinnati and as the weather was pleasant, made the journey overland.

During that month their long wagon train passed through Bellbrook. The Indians pitched their wigwams between the village and Little Sugar Creek, where they prepared to spend the night. During their brief stay, they became acquainted with many of the townspeople.

The Indians, however, did not remain for any great length of time. In fact the great caravan started for Cincinnati the next morning. From there the redskins boarded a river boat which took them to Kansas. There they were met by their kinsmen who had preceded them.

Today's Talk

WHERE IS HAPPINESS?

The one undying pursuit of the human race has always been for happiness. Whether in the jungle or the mansion.

And when so important an instrument as the Declaration of Independence came up for writing, Jefferson added in that great preamble that familiar phrase—"the pursuit of happiness" as an inalienable right.

Stevenson says that "to travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive."

Happiness moves throughout the world like air, like delicate perfume that has been tossed from exquisite cups in the heart of flowers, like songs that have warmed in throats until they had to break their way into expression, like the wings of the swift.

flying bird seeking the sunshine above the clouds.

So it is that the business of life evolves itself not in securing happiness but in its pursuit—working, hoping, praying for it—until all at once we find we have caught it in our arms.

Where is happiness? It is everywhere—and nowhere! But to be always expecting happiness is to surely find it sometime, somehow.

But happiness doesn't "just come." It's a hunting game and a giving game. Where it is? Maybe in the hovel, maybe at the sick-bed, maybe in the lonely room where God likes to creep in and talk.

Most of the happiness in the world you will find in the heart of the one you have done most to make happy.

It is said, and truthfully, that if a woman be wise she can better acquaint herself with the quality and service she may expect from a concern by acquainting herself with its policies and ideals than by studying its merchandise.

For when dealing with a concern that has built up a successful business on a sound conservative foundation—one that strives for consistent performance, and has ideals—a woman gains in the knowledge that whatever she may buy will be right from the standpoint of quality and price, whenever she may choose to purchase.

CINCINNATI, Ohio—(Special)—Track stars of Ohio will gather here May 22 when the six colleges composing the Buckeye Athletic Association meet at the University of Cincinnati for their first annual track and field meet. Two Ohio intercollegiate champions will be included among entries for the meet, Captain Rollin Rosser of Ohio Wesleyan holding the state 440-yard record and Weaver Emery, Miami, holding the state two-mile record. Emery also runs the mile in the excellent time of 4:30.

Leonard Heinrichs, Denison, is perhaps the most versatile star to be included in the B. A. A. meet this spring. Heinrichs hails from Chicago and runs the hurdles and dashes and also high jumps. With Herbert Ellis of Ohio Wesleyan he is the joint holder of the Ohio relay record for the 120-yard high hurdles.

Captain Clarence Hudson of the Ohio University team is also a hurdler and a sprinter. Hudson has been troubled by a bad ankle this spring but is pointing his efforts toward the B. A. A. meet.

Vic Maurer, Wittenberg, a New Philadelphia lad, has already won a name for himself as a fast man on the football field and will attempt at Cincinnati to demonstrate his speed again on the track. Ralph Bennett, University of Cincinnati, is one of the most consistent performers in Ohio running the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes.

Miami looks good to carry off first honors in the initial B. A. A. meet with the Ohio Wesleyan squad which has been severely handicapped by sickness and ineligibility finishing a close second. Cincinnati and Denison on the basis of their previous performance this year promise to battle for third and fourth place.

PRINCE ALBERT has been such a revelation to men who thought that they were pipe-happy that three pipes are smoked today where one was smoked before. That's a fact, Men, just as sure as little bees buzz and polliwogs have tails.

And you don't need a degree from Oxford to figure out the reason: The Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch pos-i-tive-ly and Prince Albert quality makes it the National Joy Smoke. That means you can cram this fine old favorite into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and turn on all five tubes . . . go to it any way you please . . . slow or fast, morning to midnight!

Yes, sir! P. A. is the taste-teasingest, tongue-pleasingest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar. Its smoke is the coolest that ever sifted into your system. Its fragrance keeps honeysuckle and your favorite rose fighting for second place.

Put it on your pad now: You've got a date this very day with the smoke-shop that hands out P. A. sunshine in tidy red tins. Decorate yourself with the degree of P. A., and get the highest degree of pleasure out of that old pipe.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PRINCE ALBERT

RECEIVES MEDICAL DEGREE WITH CLASS AT MONDAY PROGRAM

Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chambliss, W. Second St., received his degree in medicine Monday night at Memorial Hall, Cincinnati, when graduation exercises of Eclectic Medical College were held.

Dr. Chambliss delivered the president's address as head of his class, at the annual alumni dinner at the Cincinnati Business Men's Club. He was further honored by being elected vice president of the alumni association of the school. Dr. B. H. Nellaus was elected president; Dr. Murphy, second vice-president; Dr. J. K. Scudder, treasurer and Dr. Chas. R. Campbell, secretary.

Dr. Chambliss is a graduate of Central High School, 1917; entering Antioch College where he graduated in 1921, with a bachelor of science degree. He attended Western Reserve University, 1921-22 and in 1922 entered the Eclectic Medical College, Cincinnati.

He was night clinician at the maternity clinic for two years, while attending school. In his junior year he was elected vice-president of his class. In October, 1925, he was elected president of the senior class. He spent a year at the Dayton State Hospital in the interne ward.

Dr. Chambliss will give a talk on "Paranoia" at the medical convention at Cedar Point in June. He expects to locate in Xenia to practice his profession.

CHEMICAL PRODUCT DESCRIBED IN TALK AT KIWANIS MEETING

Interesting description of "ichthyol," special product of the Dayton Chemical Co., described by Eugene Staegemann, chemist for the Dayton concern, was followed closely by Xenia Kiwanians, at the Goody Shoppe, Tuesday evening.

"Ichthyol" comes from a deposit found in old sea bottoms, and is composed of organic matter, estimated at thirteen million years old. It is formed by the deposit of fish and fossils. It was originally discovered by German scientists and was later found by Swiss and Austrian chemists. The output was controlled for a number of years by Germany, until the discovery of a similar deposit in Texas by Mr. Staegemann, and H. S. Stafford, of the Dayton Chemical Co., who are the only chemists in the country holding the secret.

"Ichthyol" has a germicidal action without destruction of tissue. It is non-poisonous, but as strong as carbolic acid. The matter has a bituminous appearance and is distilled after reaching the Dayton plant.

Mr. Staegemann demonstrated the chemical composition of the matter with different paraphernalia before Kiwanians. He was introduced by Dr. W. A. Galloway, who with other physicians, has used the product for a number of years.

J. H. Toohey, of the advertising department, Dayton Chemical Co. also attended the meeting.

W. J. Kennedy was introduced as a new member of the local club. Herman Harner, formerly of Xenia, general manager of the Urbana Hotel, invited Xenia clubmen to attend the inter-city meeting in Urbana next Wednesday night.

Several local Kiwanians attended the institution of the Oxford Club, Tuesday night, while others attended a dinner-dance given by Springfield Kiwanis Club, at the Hotel Shawnee.

Mrs. Sarah Fuller, Boston, Mass., aunt of Miss Sarah Hager, this city, didn't know a letter she received from her friend, Alexander Graham Bell, fifty years ago would become historically important some day.

But when the fiftieth anniversary of the telephone was celebrated here this year, the time-yellowed missive, preserved for a half-century, played an interesting part in the program. The letter was read by Miss Hager at the Xenia celebration and a picture of a class of deaf and dumb children of which Mrs. Fuller and Mr. Bell were instructors, was exhibited at the same time.

It was through Bell's interest in perfecting an instrument which would enable the deaf to hear that his researches brought about the discovery of the telephone, which plays such a prominent part in modern life. It was then that he wrote to his friend, Mrs. Fuller, in whose home he had at one time been a roomer, and added the following postscript:

"P. S.: Grand telegraphic discovery today. Transmitted vocal sounds for the first time. I sang in front of a stretched membrane attached to the armature of an electro-magnet—and the pitches were echoed by an instrument in another room about 300 feet away."

"With some further modifications I hope we may be enabled to distinguish in the echo the timbre of the sound. Should this be so—conversation via wire by telegraph will be a fact accomplished."

Yours Sincerely,

"A. G. B." P. S.: The above result was accomplished without the aid of a battery. A. G. B." The letter and picture represented so interesting a detail of early telephone history, that officials of The Ohio Bell Telephone Co., borrowed both for the purpose of making a permanent record and accompanying pictures were furnished by that company.

Although Bell is dead, Mrs. Fuller still lives in Boston.

Everything today indicates that the automobile is a necessity which almost every family recognizes. The person who does not drive is 25 behind the age as a spinning wheel. You don't have to buy a car—rent one and drive it yourself.

NOVENAS TO SAINTS RESULT IN MIRACLE CURES IS LEARNED

BOSTON, May 19. — (United Press).—Tales of "miracle cures" were told here today following Novenas to St. Teresa and St. Rita. In two instances, faith and prayer were credited with having alleviated the effects of paralysis. A young woman had recovered her voice; a child, the use of her arms.

As the Rev. W. J. Casey, Roxbury pastor, was pronouncing benediction at a Novena to St. Teresa, Miss Mary Manning of Wellesley, fainting. She was revived by her mother, Mrs. William Manning, and aunt, Mrs. Mary Lane.

Relative were astounded when, on opening her eyes, the young woman said, clearly and distinctly: "Praise be to the little flower. Aunt Mary and mother, I can speak. I have recovered my voice."

Not since she was stricken with paralysis seven months ago had Miss Manning been able to talk, it was said.

Women and children in the chapel, many of whom had come in quest of miracle cures, saw Miss Manning collapse, regain consciousness, and heard the few words that came from the lips that had been sealed.

Weeping joyously, some knelt, kissed the girl's garments, begged her to pray to St. Teresa for them.

In a like manner, Elizabeth Charley, of Lowell, while attending a Novena to St. Rita, raised her arms, the use of which she had lost through paralysis. Parents said later the child apparently had regained full use of her arms.

Miss Manning, who is twenty-two years old, proved she had fully recovered her power of speech by talking on the telephone with the United Press from her home in Wellesley today.

"I remember very little about it," she said, "except how my head at the benediction and offering a prayer. Then my mind seemed to go blank and my next impulse was to cry out for joy. The moment I opened my eyes I knew I would be able to talk again."

BIDS RECEIVED FOR TEMPLE ANNEX WILL BE TABULATED SOON

Bids on at least nine different phases of the construction work for the proposed $55,000 annex to the Masonic Temple were received by the Masonic Temple Association in the offices of Owens and Hurley, architects, Tuesday afternoon.

Thirty-six bids were received, a number from Springfield and Day-ton contracting firms but a majority from local bidders, it was announced.

Bidding closed Tuesday and the contracts will be let on the various units of work when tabulation of the bids has been completed by the architects, probably early next week, it is said.

Immediately following the awarding of the contracts, ground will be broken for the immense annex this month.

Bids were received on such different portions of the construction work as cement and concrete work, brick laying, carpenter work, painting, sheet metal, and steel construction, glass and sash and metal fire door, interior decorating and ornamental work, heating and electrical work and wiring.

Snell and Ellison, who were found by police in a gravel pit off the Towler Road Saturday afternoon admitted obtaining a quantity of corn whiskey from Cline. Snell was unconscious when found and could not be revived for seven hours. Ellison fled at the approach of the officers, refusing to be frightened, by a volley of shots fired in the air, but submitted to arrest the following day.

Cline denied furnishing the youths with liquor.

My Matrimonial Vacation

by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "The Husband Tamer," "One Wife on Approval," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

NANCY LARRABEE becomes a matrimonial free lance when her husband, a young army officer, is sent to the Philippines on foreign duty. Nancy stays home with her mother.

VIRGINIA, who uses the girl's charm and beauty to help get what she wants in the world of society. Their landlord.

FRANK HARRISON, falls in love with Nancy, who tries to transfer his attentions to her mother, who is nearer his age. She gets into difficulty there, as she also does when trying to straighten out the matrimonial tangles of her other friends.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT XXVIII—A TRIP SOUTH

I FELT rather proud of myself for what I had done in helping Nathalie to straighten out her affairs, but Virginia took the wind out of my sails by finding fault with me the day after my meeting with Phil Leland in the park, when he threatened to get even with me for what I had done.

"The winter is really over, and I'm frightfully disappointed in you," she told me. "We can't afford to spend another one here in town, and I'd counted on you to—"

"To find a rich husband, and get rid of Jim, and marry the other man," I supplied as she hesitated. We never had discussed things quite that frankly, though I had always known what she wanted, and she had realized that I knew.

"Yes, I've spent far too much on your clothes, and this apartment, to get no return for it. Your father made a cash settlement on me—that's the money with which I bought stock on a margin—and now that's gone. What we're to do I don't know. If you'd only used common sense you could have married Frank Harrison this spring."

"Always providing that I got a divorce from Jim," I reminded her, "because he's crazy about you; you know that quite as well as I do."

I hated the whole world in which I lived, that morning. It was such a tawdry, empty life, in which women traded husbands as children trade dolls. I wished that I could get away from it all.

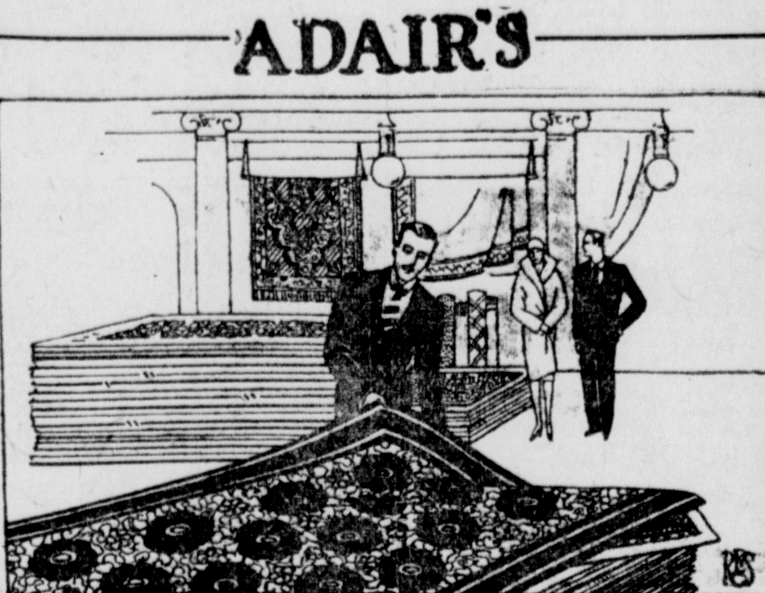

"Well, our money is so near gone that we'll have to give up this apartment by the end of next month," Virginia went on fretfully. "And what we'll do then I don't know."

"We might go to work," I suggested diffidently. "I'd make a good clerk or waitress, I'm sure, and you could be an official chaperone, or sell hats, or do something like that."

Virginia merely glared at me.

"I knew she'd almost rather starve than go to work. Personally, it had always seemed to me to be a great adventure, to go out into the world and get a job and earn money, and run into all kinds of people. If only Virginia would marry Frank Harrison and leave me free to do as I liked!

I went to Nathalie Jordan's as soon as I could escape from the house. I found her surrounded by pamphlets from one of the big travel agencies.

trout. Yet a week ago a trip to Nassau would have meant nothing to her. I wondered if I'd be so radiantly happy if Jim were to come back and tell me that he still loved me.

I was useless for me to go shopping for I hadn't any money, and Virginia and I already had huge bills at the shops. But Nathalie insisted on finding out what I liked, and when I got home that afternoon my room was overflowing with huge boxes, full of hats and frocks and cunning sports clothes.

"Oh, I can't tell Nathalie give me all these," I told Virginia in dismay.

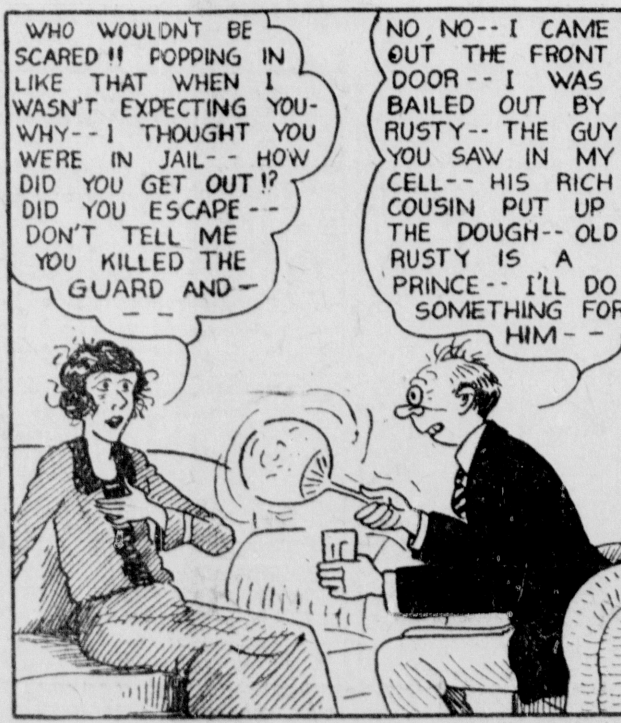

"Why not? She has loads of money. It's a pleasure to her to give you things," Virginia answered, she can always make herself believe that it's a pleasure to other people to give things to her or me. "Now, what's the meaning of all that? Where are you going?"

I told her. She sighed, and rummaged through my desk for cigarettes.

"Well, I hope you can land a rich man—and that you'll have sense enough to take him," she remarked. "If you don't we'll go to the poor-house."
